Transparency is one of the core values of this organization. Transparency also formed the basis for the design of the new office by EVA architects. The architectural design of EVA architects was already complete and the client wanted to follow the design to a T. They were looking for a party that could deliver the best possible result without compromising on quality.

The challenge in the build was the convex (curved) and concave (hollow) bending of the glass in combination with the coating. The team of Octatube has a lot of experience with this and we informed and involved the client and architect at an early stage of the build. Problems were tackled and the project progressed smoothly.
